Q12. Last week, MPs at Westminster voted in favour of the Terminally III Adults (End of Life) Bill for England and Wales. If this legislation completes its passage through Parliament, it is intended to allow terminally III adults expected to die within six months to seek help to end their own life. Similar legislation is expected to be brought forward for a vote next year in the Scottish Parliament. Broadly speaking, do you support or oppose changing the law to allow assisted dying?
